

A|PART

by Asli Kaygusuz

In the prison context, having to share furniture in a cell can create conflicts and arguments between cellmates as ownership of furniture is a contentious issue. A|PART is a modular furniture set that allows inmates to feel the individuality of using furniture, by giving them the option to separate elements and to position them in various ways depending on the task. Through the use of birch plywood and organic shapes, A|PART aims to decrease the austere feeling of cell furniture by bringing natural characteristics into the prison context.
